SPEAKER BIO

Amanda Quick

Telling yourself the truth is where every change begins.

Amanda Quick is a mother of three sons, an international bestselling author and a TEDx speaker. Her memoir, The Sex Trafficker's Wife, tells the story she was told not to tell: her husband's arrest for attempted human trafficking, the years she spent not seeing what was in front of her, and what it took to protect her children. Through her talks, writing and small circles, she helps people tell themselves the truth, especially when it's hard. In her life and in her work, she leads with God.

TALKS

The Thing You Haven't Said

Her keynote, also known as Ashes to Authority: what it takes to stop performing your life and tell the truth about it. For leaders, women's groups and churches.

Unmuted: Writing the Story Only You Can Tell

Reading resistance as a signal, and writing for the one still in the fight. For writers and author events.

What We Pass On

Seeing honestly what we carry, and choosing what we hand down to our children. For mothers, parenting groups and churches. She also shares her testimony and joins panels.

INTRODUCTION (READ ALOUD)

Amanda Quick is a mother of three, a bestselling author and a TEDx speaker. In 2016, her husband was arrested for attempted human trafficking. Telling the truth about what came next changed her life, and now she helps others do the same. Please welcome Amanda Quick.
